

"Let my people Go"

The Ten Plagues of Egypt

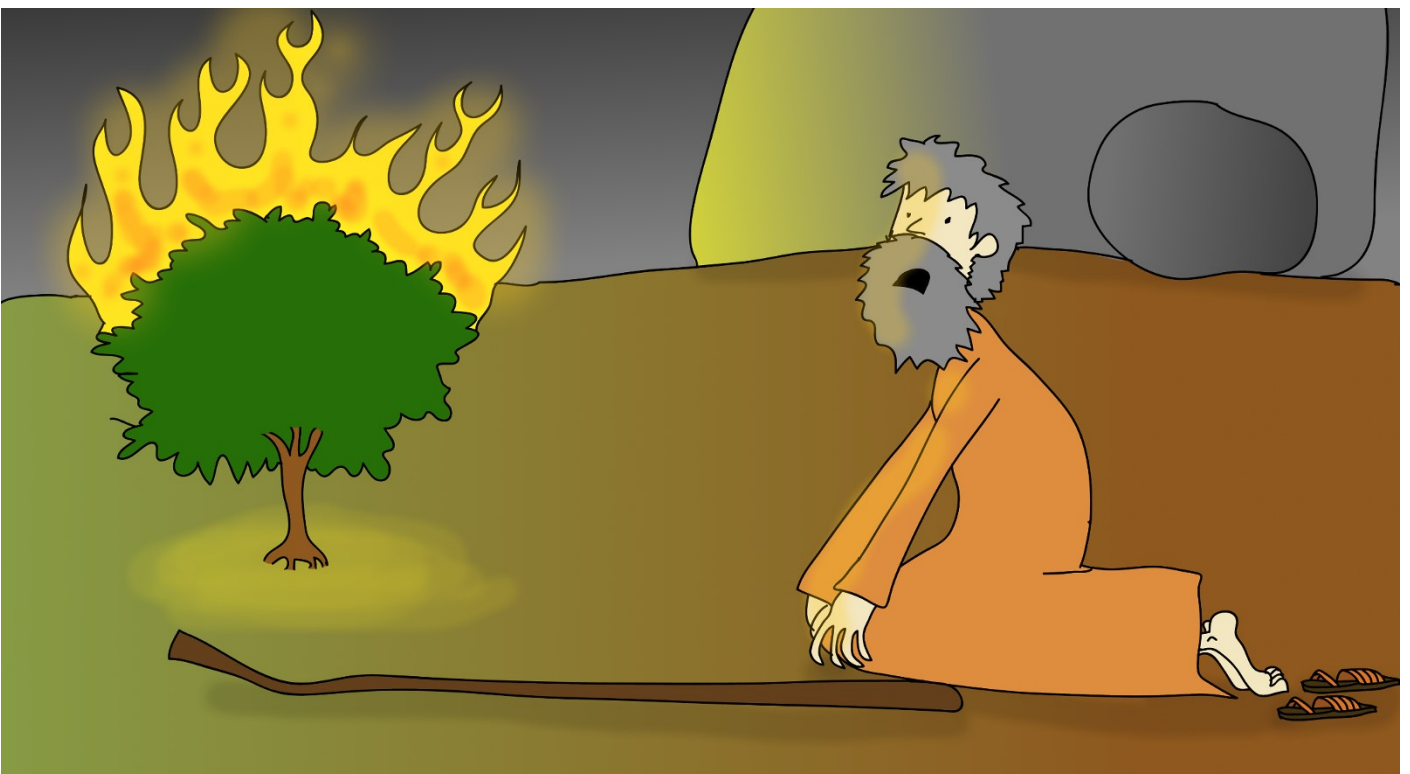

Exodus 3 and 7-12

The Israelites were slaves to the Egyptians and cried out to God to save them.

God heard their cries and called Moses to save them.

God spoke to Moses in a 'burning' bush. He was to go to the new Pharaoh of Egypt and tell him, "Let God's people go!"

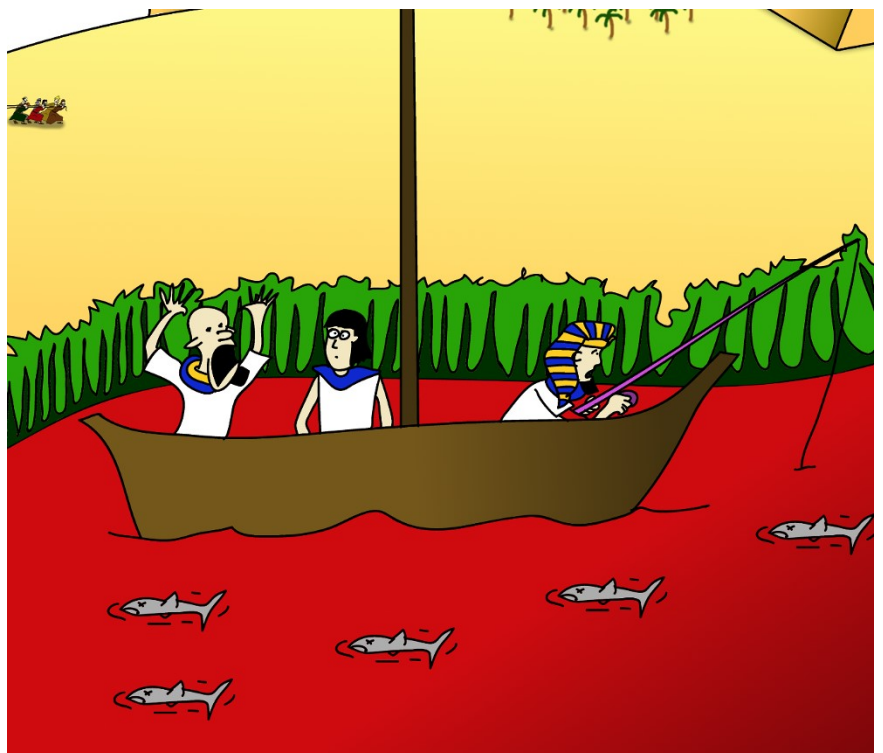

Moses was not confident in speaking and worried that the Pharaoh wouldn't listen. God told him that he was not to worry for God would give him the words to say and show Pharaoh signs of His power. Aaron, Moses' brother, was to also go with him to help him.

Moses and Aaron went to the Pharaoh and told him that God was not pleased with how he was treating 'his people' (the Israelites) and was to "let them Go" out of slavery.

Pharaoh refused, so Moses lifted his hand and all the water in Egypt and the Nile River turned to blood.

After 7 days God told Moses to go back to Pharaoh.

He said, "Let my people go!" and the Pharaoh again refused.

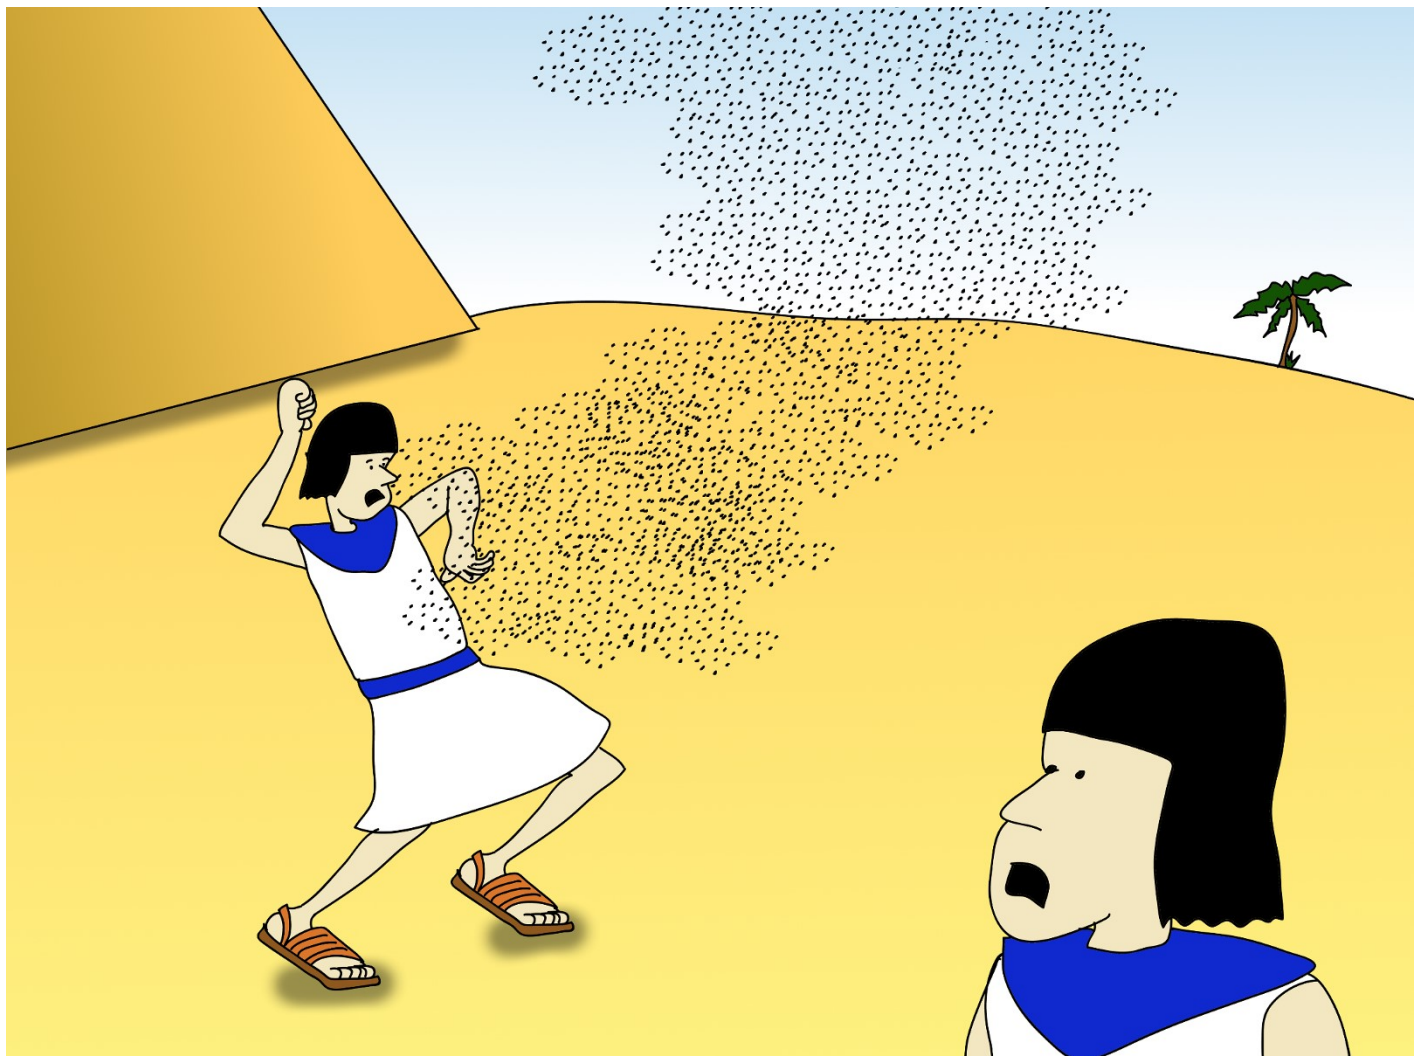

God sent a plague of frogs to cover all Egypt.

Pharaoh asked Moses to tell God to remove the frogs. He did.

Then Moses said, "Let my people go!" Pharaoh's heart was hardened and he said "NO".

God sent a plague of gnats.

This happened again and again.

Moses would ask Pharaoh to “Let my people go” and Pharaoh would say “NO”.

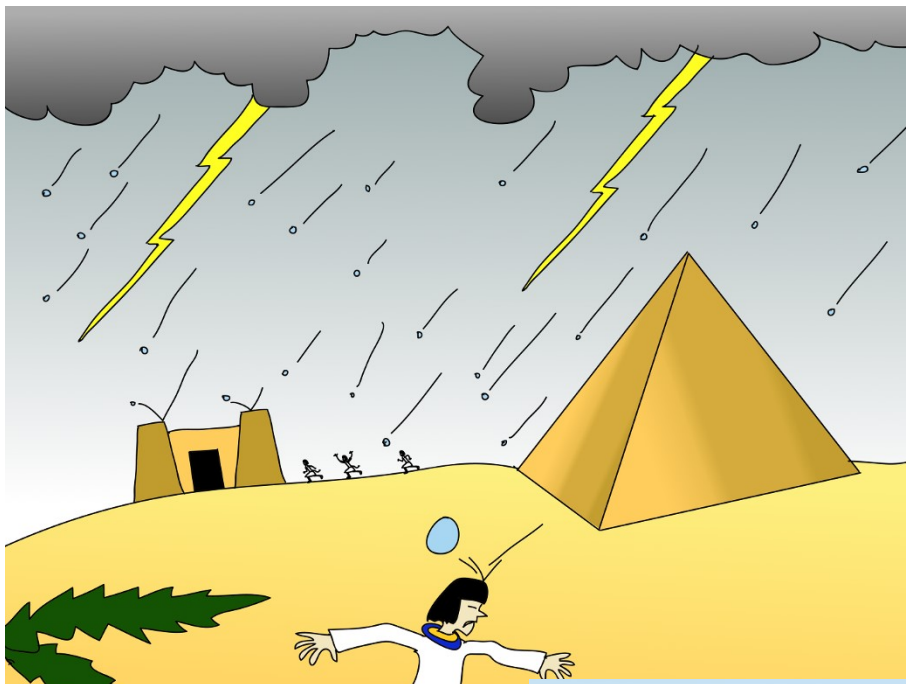

God sent a plague of flies.

God killed all the Egyptian's animals.

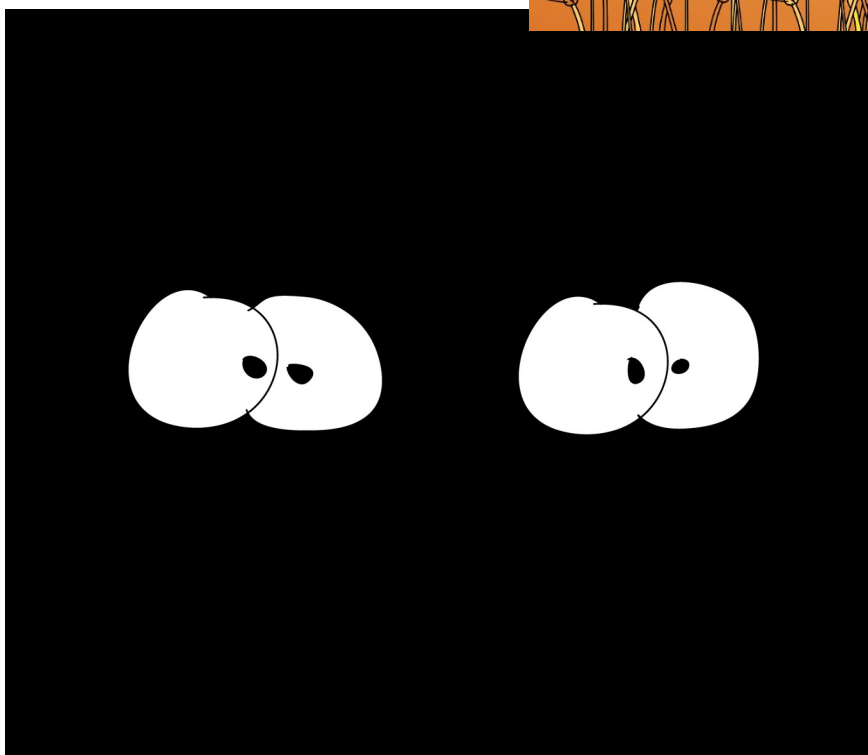

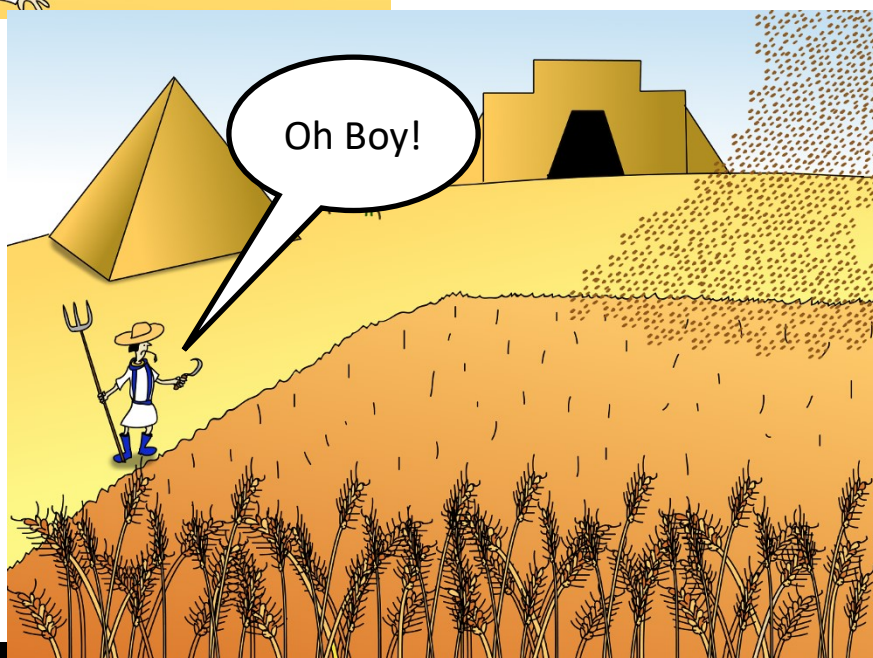

God sent a plague of boils on the Egyptian's skin.

God sent a plague of hail.

God sent a plague of locusts.

God sent darkness to cover all Egypt where the Egyptians lived for 3 days...

Finally, God sent Moses back to Pharaoh to say: "Let my people go!"

He told the Pharaoh that God would send one more terrible plague on the Egyptians.

Again, Pharaoh hardened his heart and would not let them go.

God told Moses to tell all the Israelites to paint their door posts with the blood of a perfect lamb.

They were to prepare the lamb and eat it and then get ready to leave Egypt.

That night, the angel of death passed over all the houses that had blood on the door, but in all the others (the Egyptians) the angel killed the oldest boy in the family.

Pharaoh's son also died and Pharaoh told Moses to... "Go, take your people and leave".

So, the Israelites left their slavery in Egypt. God was leading them to the Promised Land.
